Item 4 – Advisory Business

Edgewood Management LLC (“Edgewood”), originally founded in 1974 as a family office providing portfolio management services, offers investment advisory services to institutional clients, individuals, high net worth clients, registered investment companies, and pooled investment vehicles through separately managed accounts. Edgewood Management Company I, Inc. is the principal shareholder owning 25% or more of the firm with Alan Breed owning 25% or more of Edgewood Management Company I, Inc. As of December 31, 2022, Edgewood’s discretionary assets under management totaled $28,757,000,000.

Edgewood primarily manages large capitalization growth equity portfolios (“Large Cap Growth”) for various types of clients. Portfolios primarily consist of the stock of approximately twenty-two (22) publicly traded companies. To the extent that Edgewood invests in any foreign companies, such investments will generally be made through the purchase of sponsored American Depository Receipts (“ADR”). At its discretion, Edgewood can also invest in companies considered to be small or medium-capitalized companies. Clients can impose reasonable restrictions on investing in certain securities or certain types of securities.

Edgewood’s growth equity portfolios are considered to have limited diversification. All investments are subject to market risk, including the risk of loss of principal. Non-diversified portfolios are subject to further risk that the poor performance of one or more of the companies within such portfolio could have a greater impact than if the portfolio had a broader range of investments. Please see additional information about “principal risks” in Item 8 of this document.

Edgewood currently provides investment advisory services to separately managed accounts and as sub-adviser to JP Morgan Private Client Services, Cerity Partners LLC, Morgan Stanley LLC, Wells Fargo Bank, PNC Bank, CIBC Bank USA, Truist, First Republic Investment Management, and Callan Family Office, LLC. Edgewood also provides investment advisory services as investment manager to sponsored wrap-fee programs including the programs sponsored by Raymond James, R.W. Baird and J.P. Morgan Securities LLC. Edgewood receives a fee from the sponsor for the investment services it provides to these wrap-fee programs. Refer to Item 12 for a discussion of the trading allocation differences of the wrap-fee program practices with other Edgewood client accounts. Edgewood provides investment advisory services to various funds including the Edgewood Growth Fund, Edgewood L Select – US Select Growth, OFI Lux, Thesis Unit Investment Trust and EDM International.

In addition, Edgewood offers advice to certain legacy accounts with respect to private fund investments including private venture capital funds. Edgewood can also invest eligible accounts in Initial Public Offerings (“IPOs”). Refer to Item 16 for a discussion of investments in IPOs.

For certain clients, and particularly but not exclusively for high net worth individuals with which Edgewood has had relationships of substantial length, Edgewood provides a balanced strategy covering a broader range of securities, including investments in fixed income investments (bonds) and private partnerships.

Edgewood's investment and client service personnel are available to regularly meet with clients as necessary to discuss portfolio risk and client portfolio mandates to ensure Edgewood's investment management services are consistent with the client's goals and risk tolerance. Edgewood's non-diversified Large Cap Growth strategy is not necessarily appropriate as a complete diversification tool and is not designed to provide diversification to clients. Clients can seek other investment advice regarding portfolio diversification.

Edgewood will comply with client's specific investment guidelines and reasonable restrictions as long as the investment guidelines and restrictions are provided to Edgewood in writing.

Item 5 – Fees and Compensation

Management Fee

The specific manner in which fees are charged by Edgewood is established in a client's written agreement with Edgewood. Clients in Edgewood's Large Cap and Balanced strategies pay an asset-based investment management fee of 1% per annum of assets under management. Edgewood's minimum account size is $5,000,000.

Wrap-fee advisory fees are payable in advance based on the total asset value of accounts at the end of each quarter and range from .50% to .75% and are not negotiable. In the event of the termination of any of the wrap-fee accounts, the program sponsor refunds the client the appropriate portion of any pre-paid fees and adjusts the advisory fee paid to Edgewood the following quarter. Fees paid to Edgewood by sub-advised clients are similarly refunded and adjusted.

General Information on Fees

Separately managed account fees and minimums are subject to negotiation.

Clients whose accounts predate this disclosure document are subject to pre-existing fee arrangements which can differ from the above schedule. For its sub-advisory services to registered investment companies and other pooled investment vehicles, Edgewood is paid a fee that is separately negotiated with such funds and approved by the boards of directors of such funds.

Edgewood also offers performance-based fee arrangements for separately managed accounts whereby the fee is based on an incrementally increased percentage of assets under management based upon outperformance relative to a selected benchmark index. In measuring clients' assets for the calculation of performance-based fees, Edgewood shall include realized and unrealized capital gains and losses. Refer to Item 6 for a full discussion on performance based fee arrangements.

While it is not anticipated that mutual funds will be included in clients' portfolios, money market mutual funds can be used to 'sweep' unused cash balances until they can be appropriately invested. Clients should recognize that all fees paid to Edgewood for investment advisory services are separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged by mutual funds to their shareholders. These fees and expenses are described in each fund's prospectus. These fees will generally include a management fee, other fund expenses, and a possible distribution fee.

Edgewood will generally bill its fees on a quarterly basis, however, certain clients pay fees monthly. Investment management fees are charged based on the total market value of the assets in the client account including net unrealized appreciation or depreciation of investments and cash, cash equivalents and accrued interest on the last day of the quarter or month or other frequency as set forth in the investment management agreement between Edgewood and the client. Fees for registered investment companies and pooled investment vehicles are generally based on the average daily net assets of the applicable fund. Clients elect to be billed in advance or arrears each calendar quarter. Clients also elect to be billed directly for fees or to authorize Edgewood to directly debit fees from client accounts by instructing the client's custodian. Management fees are generally not prorated for each capital contribution and withdrawal made during the applicable calendar quarter unless specified in the client agreement. Accounts initiated or terminated during a calendar quarter will be charged a prorated fee. Upon termination of any account, any prepaid, unearned fees will be promptly refunded, and any earned, unpaid fees will be due and payable and will be calculated based on the value of the assets on the termination date and prorated for the number of days during the applicable timeframe in which the investment management arrangement was in effect. Edgewood's fees are exclusive of brokerage commissions, transaction fees, and other related costs and expenses which shall be incurred by the client. Clients can incur certain charges imposed by custodians, brokers, third party investment advisers and other third parties, such as fees charged by managers, custodial fees, deferred sales charges, odd-lot differentials, transfer taxes, wire transfer and electronic fund fees, and other fees and taxes on brokerage accounts and securities transactions. Mutual funds and exchange traded funds also charge internal management fees, which are disclosed in a fund's prospectus. In addition, clients are also responsible for the fees/expenses charged by custodians, including any transaction charges imposed by a broker dealer with which Edgewood arranges for the execution of clients' securities transactions. Such charges, fees and commissions are exclusive of and in addition to Edgewood's fee, and Edgewood shall not receive any portion of these commissions, fees, and costs. Please refer to Item 12 for additional information regarding brokerage practices including the factors that Edgewood considers in selecting or recommending broker-dealers for client transactions and determining the reasonableness of their compensation (e.g., commissions).

Valuation

Valuations of securities for the purpose of establishing Edgewood's fees are prepared as of the last business day of each preceding calendar quarter, month or other agreed timeframe as may be applicable, in which an investment advisory agreement is in full effect ("valuation date"). Securities are valued according to the following guidelines:

1. Exchange traded securities are valued on the basis of the last traded sales price on the valuation date, which Edgewood obtains from an independent source;
2. Over-the-counter securities are valued at the NASDAQ official closing price on the valuation date; and

3. For certain private investments, Edgewood typically utilizes the periodic valuations as reported by the sponsor of the private investment to the extent available. In the absence of updated private investment valuations, Edgewood maintains the price according to the last reported valuation which is provided by the sponsor of the private investment.

Valuations reported by Edgewood and utilized by Edgewood to calculate fees can in some cases vary from valuations reported by custodians. Conflicts of interest can be heightened in the case of assets that do not have readily ascertainable market values.

Terminations

Any investment advisory agreement can be terminated at any time by the investment advisory client. In the event of such termination, fees shall be prorated on a daily basis and a portion of any prepaid fees which shall represent payment for the period between the date of termination and the last business day of the fiscal quarter in which such termination occurs shall be refunded within 30 days of the termination.

Item 6 – Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

Edgewood has performance-based fee arrangements with qualified clients through separately managed accounts. These clients pay a fee based on an incrementally increased percentage of assets under management based upon outperformance relative to a selected benchmark index. In measuring clients' assets for the calculation of performance-based fees, Edgewood shall include realized and unrealized capital gains and losses. Edgewood manages client accounts that are charged performance-based compensation in addition to accounts that are charged an asset-based fee. Performance-based fee arrangements can create an incentive for Edgewood to recommend investments which may be riskier or more speculative than those which would be recommended under a different fee arrangement. In addition, certain client accounts can have higher asset-based fees or performance-based fee arrangements than other accounts or can provide payment to Edgewood at different times or frequencies than other accounts. Such fee arrangements also create an incentive to favor higher fee paying accounts over other accounts in the allocation of investment opportunities. Edgewood manages multiple client accounts and therefore has adopted and implemented policies and procedures intended to address conflicts of interest that can arise relating to the management of its client accounts including accounts with different fee arrangements to prevent this conflict from influencing the allocation of investment opportunities among clients.

Item 7 – Types of Clients

Edgewood's clients include individuals, high net worth individuals, pension and profit-sharing plans, trusts, estates, Taft-Hartley plans, foundations, endowments, state and municipal government entities, pooled investment vehicles including private funds, investment companies, insurance companies, corporations and other business entities.

Edgewood generally requires a minimum account size of $5,000,000 to open a Large Cap Growth Portfolio. At its sole discretion, Edgewood can reduce minimums.

Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear.

Edgewood identifies investments through research-driven fundamental analysis and employs a bottom-up approach in its investment analysis. Edgewood's Investment Committee incorporates both qualitative and quantitative inputs with bottom-up fundamental company analysis to identify the most appropriate securities to include in an investment portfolio. The Investment Committee continually monitors investments and will add or reduce exposure to certain securities held in the client's portfolio when it is deemed appropriate. Edgewood engages in a buy and hold investment strategy where Edgewood buys securities and holds them for a relatively long period of time (typically between three to five years), regardless of short-term factors such as fluctuations in the market or volatility of the stock price. Edgewood attempts to make investments in companies whose earnings Edgewood expects to grow at an above-average rate compared to the specific industry or the overall market. Edgewood integrates sustainability risk factors in its fundamental analysis of a company's potential long-term value creation. Sustainability risks factors are environmental, social, or governance events or conditions that, if they occur, could cause an actual or potentially material negative impact on the value of a company's investments. Edgewood also applies exclusionary screening to the Large Cap Growth portfolio and will not invest in companies that derive significant revenue from manufacturing tobacco products, producing pornography, or operating gambling establishments and will not invest in companies that manufacture cluster munitions and landmines. Edgewood typically applies an up to 5% revenue threshold for exclusionary screening purposes. More information regarding Edgewood's integration of sustainability risk factors can be obtained in Edgewood's ESG Integration Policy which is available upon request or on Edgewood's website www.edgewood.com free of charge.

In gathering information regarding prospective investments, Edgewood consults with various parties, including, but not limited to, employees, managers, officers, suppliers, clients, competitors, and business partners of companies in addition to third party research providers such as analysts, brokers, bankers, other unaffiliated investment advisers and academics.

Edgewood has implemented policies and procedures to restrict trading on insider information and seeks to avoid receiving insider information from any source. Sources of research and information, including those described above, however, present potential sources of the inadvertent receipt of insider information. If Edgewood inadvertently or otherwise receives insider information, then Edgewood might be unable to purchase a position in the respective security or sell a respective holding. Such restrictions have the potential to impact performance.

Risk of Loss

All investors are subject to the risk that his or her investment could lose money and clients must be prepared to bear the loss of their entire investment. Investments in equity markets are subject to many risk factors, including risks arising from economic conditions, government regulations, market sentiment, local and international political events including war and geopolitical conflict, global pandemics and environmental and technological issues. The principal risk factors affecting investments in the Edgewood's strategies are as follows. Since it primarily purchases equity securities, the investments are subject to the risk that stock prices will fall over short or extended periods of time. Historically, the equity markets have moved in cycles, and the value of equity securities can fluctuate drastically from day to day. Individual companies may report poor results or be negatively affected by industry and/or economic trends and developments. The prices of securities issued by such companies may suffer a decline in response. These factors contribute to price volatility, which is a principal risk of investing. The Large Cap Growth strategy is non-diversified and often results in a core group of stocks of companies that Edgewood believes hold the most growth potential. As a result, poor performance or adverse economic events affecting one or more of these companies could have a greater impact on the strategy than it would on another investment account with a broader range of investments. Edgewood may invest in some securities that, in fairness to all Edgewood clients, requires Edgewood to execute trades for client accounts over an extended period of time during which there can be fluctuations in the price of the security. Any quicker acquisition or sale of an investment position can negatively impact the price of the security.

When Edgewood invests client assets in foreign securities or securities issued by U.S. entities with substantial foreign operations, there are additional risks relating to political, economic, or regulatory conditions in foreign countries. Risks could include fluctuations in foreign currencies, withholding or other taxes, trading, settlement, custodial, and other operational risks typically not associated with domestic securities. Although ADRs are an alternative to directly purchasing the underlying foreign securities in their national markets and currencies, they are also subject to many of the risks associated with investing directly in foreign securities. Foreign investments, especially investments in emerging markets, can be riskier and more volatile than investments in the United States. Adverse political and economic developments or changes in the value of foreign currency can make it difficult to sell such securities and could reduce the value of the investments.

Edgewood can invest in publicly traded real estate investment trusts (REITs) as part of its investment strategy. A REIT is a company that owns and may operate income-producing real estate or real estate-related assets and are affected by underlying real estate values. Investments in REITs are subject to additional risks including the risk of interest rate volatility and risk of concentration in specific property types and concentration of customers.

Differences in tax and accounting standards and difficulties in obtaining information about foreign companies can negatively affect investment decisions. Emerging markets may have governments that are less stable, markets that are less liquid and economies that may be less developed.

Edgewood's information and technology systems and those of key service providers to Edgewood and its clients can be vulnerable to potential damage or interruption from computer viruses, network failures, computer and telecommunication failures, infiltration by unauthorized persons and security breaches, usage errors by employees, power outages, and catastrophic events such as fires, tornadoes, floods, hurricanes, and earthquakes. Although Edgewood has implemented measures to manage these risks, if the systems are compromised, become inoperable for extended periods of time or cease to function properly, it might be necessary for Edgewood to seek applicable remedies to the address the issue(s). The failure of these systems and/or disaster recovery plans for any reason could cause significant interruptions in Edgewood's operations or its clients' accounts and result in a failure to maintain the security, confidentiality, or privacy of sensitive data including personal information.

Edgewood relies on certain financial, accounting, data processing and other operational systems, programs, and services, some of which require manual input and are susceptible to error. These systems, programs, and services can be subject to certain defects, failures or interruptions. Edgewood has taken certain measures to safeguard information in these systems, however there are risks associated with a cybersecurity breach which can result in damage and disruption in hardware and software systems, loss or corruption of data and/or misappropriation of confidential information. Any such errors and/or disruptions can lead to financial losses, the disruption of client trading activities, liability under applicable law, regulatory intervention or reputational damage.

Item 9 – Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of Edgewood or the integrity of Edgewood's management. Edgewood has no information to disclose.

Item 10 – Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Certain Edgewood partners are board members of Edgewood L Select, a Luxembourg-based SICAV (société d'investissement à capital variable), for which Edgewood provides investment advisory services. Edgewood's partners do not receive remuneration from Edgewood L Select for serving on the board of directors. However, Edgewood receives an investment management fee for providing its investment advisory services to Edgewood L Select – US Select Growth pursuant to an investment advisory agreement between Edgewood and Edgewood L Select. Edgewood's relationship can create an incentive for Edgewood to favor Edgewood L Select over other accounts in the allocation of investment opportunities. Edgewood's procedures are designed and implemented to ensure that all clients are treated fairly and equally, and to prevent this potential conflict from influencing the allocation of investment opportunities among clients.

From time to time, certain Edgewood partners act as general partners of limited liability companies and/or limited partnerships for which Edgewood acts as investment adviser. Edgewood has established various policies and procedures that are designed to minimize the possibility of conflicts of interest arising between Edgewood client accounts and employee accounts. Edgewood's policies and procedures are designed to ensure client accounts are treated fairly and equitably, even with respect to proprietary accounts.

Edgewood has provided financing and is deemed a minority owner of Spyglass Capital Management, LLC. Edgewood is not involved in Spyglass's day-to-day business including the management of Spyglass's advisory accounts and does not have a controlling interest in Spyglass.

Edgewood has entered into a "short" position of an index for one client account pursuant to the client's instruction to effectuate a specific investment strategy directed by the client. Edgewood does not directly "short" a security in which one or more of its clients' accounts at the time hold a "long" position.

Edgewood has retained SEI Global Services to provide certain services including reconciliation, billing, statement preparation, and record maintenance. Edgewood remunerates SEI for these services, Edgewood client accounts do not incur additional fees for the SEI services.

Item 11 – Code of Ethics, Participation in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Edgewood has adopted a Code of Ethics (the "Code") describing its commitment to high standards of business conduct and its fiduciary duty to its clients. Applicable to all supervised persons of Edgewood, the Code includes provisions relating to a prohibition on insider trading, a prohibition of rumor mongering, restrictions on the acceptance of significant gifts and the reporting of certain gifts and business entertainment items, and personal securities trading procedures, among other things. All supervised persons at Edgewood must acknowledge the terms of the Code annually.

From time to time related persons, including the partners, officers and employees of Edgewood (each an "Access Person") buys or sells securities for personal brokerage accounts and/or for related accounts in which such persons have a beneficial interest. Access Persons can buy and sell securities Edgewood recommends to clients on the same day as clients, within certain limitations designed to protect client interests. Access Persons are required to submit for pre-trade clearance approval prior to engaging in transactions in Reportable Securities in a Personal Brokerage Account unless certain exceptions apply. For certain across-the-board strategy changes, Access Persons' transactions can be aggregated together with clients' transactions for pro rata execution at a uniform price. In addition, certain principals of Edgewood maintain ownership interests in entities in which advisory clients of Edgewood have also invested. Personal securities transactions raise potential conflicts of interest when employees trade in a security a client owns or in which Edgewood is considering for purchase or sale for a client.

Furthermore, Edgewood's Code establishes policies and procedures regarding private placements and investment opportunities of limited availability. Edgewood and its Access Persons may be presented with opportunities to participate in these investments, however, these investments may not be suitable for Edgewood clients and therefore will not be presented to clients for consideration. Access Persons are required to comply with the pre-trade clearance requirements of the Code as it pertains to private placement investments.

In addition, Edgewood's Code establishes policies and procedures for the detection and prevention of inappropriate personal securities transactions by persons having knowledge of investments or investment intentions of a client, and further addresses other situations involving potential conflicts of interest.

The Code is intended to ensure the personal securities transactions of persons subject to the Code are conducted in accordance with the following principles:

1. The duty at all times to place the interests of clients first;
2. The requirement that all Access Persons' personal securities transactions be conducted consistent with the Code and in such a manner as to avoid any actual or potential conflict of interest or any abuse of an individual's responsibility and position of trust; and,
3. The fundamental standard that Access Persons not take inappropriate advantage of their positions.

With respect to all accounts in which an Access Person has a personal or beneficial interest, each Access Person is required to provide: (1) an initial holdings report or sufficient brokerage statements upon becoming subject to the Code; (2) daily, monthly or quarterly transaction reports or official monthly or quarterly brokerage account statements satisfying the Code which can be provided electronically; (3) annual holdings reports or sufficient brokerage account statements or brokerage transaction activity which can be provided electronically; and (4) an annual certification of compliance with the Code.

Edgewood's clients or prospective clients can request a copy of the firm's Code of Ethics by contacting Julianne Mulhall or Olivia Fleming at (212) 652-9100.

It is Edgewood's policy that the firm will not effect any principal or agency cross securities transactions for client accounts. Edgewood will also generally not cross trades between client accounts. Principal transactions are defined as transactions where an adviser, acting as principal for its own account or the account of an affiliated broker-dealer, buys from or sells any security to any advisory client. A principal transaction can also be deemed to have occurred if a security is crossed between an affiliated fund and another client account. An agency cross transaction is defined as a transaction where a person acts as an investment adviser in relation to a transaction in which the investment adviser, or any person controlled by or under common control with the investment adviser, acts as broker for both the advisory client and for another person on the other side of the transaction. Agency cross transactions can arise where an adviser is dually registered as a broker-dealer or has an affiliated broker-dealer.

Under the Code, certain classes of securities have been designated as exempt transactions, based upon a determination that these would not materially interfere with the best interests of Edgewood's clients. In addition, the Code requires pre-clearance of employee transactions in Reportable Securities unless certain exceptions apply. Nonetheless, because the Code in some circumstances would permit employees to invest in the same securities as clients, there is a possibility that employees might benefit from market activity by a client in a security held by an employee. Employee trading is continually monitored under the Code to reasonably prevent conflicts of interest between Edgewood and its clients.

Certain affiliated accounts can trade in the same securities with client accounts on an aggregated basis when consistent with Edgewood's obligation of best execution. In such circumstances, the affiliated and client accounts will share commission costs equally and receive securities at a total average price. Edgewood will retain records of the trade order (specifying each participating account) and its allocation, which will be completed prior to the entry of the aggregated order. Completed orders will be allocated as specified in the initial trade order. Partially filled orders will be allocated on a pro rata basis. Any exceptions will be documented. An aggregated order can be allocated on a different basis for certain reasons such as to avoid odd lots or excessively small allocations.

Item 12 – Brokerage Practices

Research and Brokerage Services

Edgewood generally determines the brokers through whom securities transactions for clients' accounts are executed and therefore negotiates the commission rates paid to the broker. Edgewood seeks to effect transactions at a price, commission and transaction cost (e.g., mark-up or mark-down) that provides the most favorable total cost or proceeds reasonably attainable under the circumstances. Edgewood considers various factors in the selection of a broker, including research capabilities, access to research analysts, ability to execute trades, nature and frequency of sales coverage, depth of services provided, back office and processing capabilities, financial stability and responsibility, reputation, commission rate, responsiveness to Edgewood and the value of brokerage and research services (collectively "Brokerage and Research Services") provided by such brokers.

Brokerage and Research Services provided by brokers can include, among other things: proprietary research from broker-dealers (written or oral), attendance at certain seminars and conferences, discussions with research analysts, meetings with corporate executives, computer databases, trade-order management, routing, trade reconciliation and settlement systems, research concerning market, economic and financial data, statistical information, data on pricing and availability of securities, certain financial publications, electronic market quotations, performance measurement services, analysis concerning specific securities, companies or sectors and market, economic and financial studies and forecasts.

In selecting broker-dealers to execute transactions, Edgewood need not solicit competitive bids and does not have an obligation to seek the lowest available commission cost. Accordingly, Edgewood might pay brokers a brokerage commission in excess of that which another broker might have charged for effecting the same transaction in recognition of the value of the research services provided by the broker. Research services furnished by brokers through whom Edgewood effects securities transactions are used in servicing all client accounts. Edgewood attempts to standardize discounts available from various firms, to execute transactions at the lowest possible rate with the goal of maintaining contacts with a firm and obtaining research from such firms. Edgewood's Best Execution Committee meets periodically to review and evaluate its soft dollar practices and to determine in good faith whether, with respect to any research or other products or services received from a broker dealer, the commissions used to obtain those products and services were reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage, research or other products or services provided by the broker dealer. All brokerage allocations and research expenditures are determined by the Best Execution Committee to mitigate potential conflicts of interest.

Brokerage and Research Services provided by brokers include proprietary products and services of the brokers, or third party products provided to Edgewood by the brokers. Edgewood also participates in research and brokerage services arrangements in which a broker dealer will retain a portion of commissions generated by Edgewood for the payment of research and execution-related services to third parties as directed by Edgewood. Edgewood attempts to use these arrangements in servicing all client accounts, however, not all such research and brokerage services can be used in connection with the accounts which paid the commissions to the broker providing such services. When Edgewood uses client brokerage commissions to obtain research and other permitted products and services, Edgewood receives a benefit in that Edgewood does not therefore have to produce or pay for the research, products or services. This is known as a “soft dollar” relationship. Edgewood uses “soft dollars” to obtain research and brokerage services that constitute research and brokerage within the meaning of Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (“Section 28(e)"). Receiving research or other permissible products and services from brokers creates an incentive for Edgewood to select or recommend a broker dealer based on Edgewood’s interest in receiving the research, rather than on Edgewood’s clients’ interest in receiving most favorable execution.

In some instances, Edgewood obtains a product or service that is used, in part, by Edgewood for Section 28(e) eligible purposes and, in part, for other purposes. In such instances, Edgewood will make a good faith effort to determine the relative proportion of the product or service used to assist Edgewood in carrying out its investment decision-making responsibilities and the relative proportion used for administrative or other purposes outside of Section 28(e). Where a product or service obtained with commission dollars provides both research and non-research assistance to Edgewood, the firm will make a reasonable allocation of the proportion attributable to assisting in carrying out investment decision-making responsibilities, which will be paid through brokerage commissions generated by client transactions. The remaining portion, attributable to administrative or other non-research purposes, will be paid for by Edgewood.

Edgewood's clients who grant Edgewood complete discretion with respect to the selection of a broker (the “Free Accounts”) subsidize research and other services that are provided to clients who direct the use of a particular broker or whose accounts generate minimal brokerage commissions since the commission dollars generated by such clients are not available to pay for research that is received from other brokers.

Aggregation and Allocation

Edgewood ordinarily aggregates or “blocks” client orders to achieve more efficient execution. In such instances, each client account participating in the aggregate transaction will be charged the average price per unit for the security and transaction costs will be allocated pro rata among clients. In cases where trading or investment restrictions are placed on a client's account, Edgewood can be precluded from aggregating that client's transaction with others. In such a case, the client can pay a higher commission rate and/or receive less favorable prices than clients who are able to participate in an aggregated order. Edgewood has adopted policies and procedures to meet the firm's fiduciary responsibilities and designed to treat all clients fairly over time. However, there can be instances where circumstances out of Edgewood's control requires exceptional treatment and such instances will be approved by members of Edgewood's Investment Committee and memorialized.

In certain extraordinary circumstances, it can be a disadvantage to clients for Edgewood to aggregate client transactions. In such instances, Edgewood will create a list of all Free Accounts based on the size of the account's assets and will execute securities transactions for each client account separately beginning with the client account with the largest amount of assets; and the Wrap Accounts and Directed Brokerage Accounts (as defined below) will trade after the Free Accounts in order based on the largest aggregate size of the accounts directing trades to the individual broker. In the event the circumstances of a particular client account requires that client account trade out of the predetermined order of largest to smallest based on account size, such as due to low cash positions, exceptional treatment can be granted by the written consent of the applicable Portfolio Manager and the Legal and Compliance Department on an account by account basis. Such treatment will be documented by the Legal and Compliance Department.

Directed Brokerage

Certain clients instruct Edgewood to trade with, and direct brokerage commissions to, particular brokers selected by the client. These client accounts are referred to as "Directed Brokerage Accounts." In such circumstances, the client is responsible for negotiating commission rates with their respective broker and therefore may pay a higher or lower commission than the lowest commission negotiated by Edgewood. A client that directs Edgewood to use a particular broker should be aware that Edgewood may not be able to obtain best execution for their transactions and can receive less favorable prices and pay a higher commission rate for executing these transactions. Ultimately, Directed Brokerage Accounts may cost clients more money. Because Directed Brokerage Accounts' trades cannot be aggregated with Free Accounts' trades, Directed Brokerage Accounts will generally trade separately and after the Free Accounts and can lose the possible advantages (i.e., volume discounts or execution priority) that non-designating clients derive from the aggregating of orders for several clients for the purchase or sale of a particular security.

Certain Edgewood clients participate in wrap-fee programs. These clients are referred to as "Wrap Accounts." Transactions for client accounts participating in wrap-fee programs are arranged only through the sponsoring broker-dealer and commission charges, custodial and other fees are included within the total, bundled wrap-fee. Should Edgewood arrange transactions in Wrap Accounts through other broker-dealers, clients would generally be subject to additional commission charges or step-out fees in addition to the wrap-fee charged for participating in the program. Additionally, various operational issues often would preclude Edgewood from efficiently settling transactions arranged with brokers other than the sponsoring broker. By arranging transactions in this manner, clients within such wrap-fee platforms can receive execution prices higher or lower than other Edgewood clients. Client accounts participating in wrap-fee programs will not benefit from the possible advantages of aggregating with accounts other than those in the same wrap-fee program.

Edgewood is unable to aggregate trades for Wrap Accounts and Directed Brokerage Accounts with the Free Accounts. The Free Accounts are those accounts for which Edgewood determines the brokers through whom securities transactions for those accounts are executed and negotiates the commission rates. Wrap Accounts and Directed Brokerage Accounts will trade separately and after the Free Accounts. Wrap Accounts and Directed Brokerage Accounts will therefore receive different execution prices than Free Accounts. Wrap Accounts and Directed Brokerage Accounts will be traded on a rotational basis among the respective wrap-fee sponsoring brokers and client-directed brokers. Transactions for all clients using each respective wrap-fee program or directed broker will typically be aggregated together and receive pro rata pricing respectively.

With respect to trade errors which might occur, Edgewood's error correction policy is designed to treat clients fairly. In the event a trade error occurs in an Edgewood investment advisory client account due to an error made by Edgewood personnel and/or systems, Edgewood seeks to have the trade allocated to an error account. If the trade has not settled, Edgewood will, according to its error correction policy, allocate any gains or losses to Edgewood's error account maintained at the applicable broker and will net any gains in its error account(s) against any applicable trade error losses, as may be applicable. Edgewood has discretion to resolve a particular error in the manner deemed appropriate depending on the circumstances and consistent with the policy. In the event a client account incurs a trade error due to Edgewood personnel and/or systems, Edgewood will reimburse the client for losses attributable to such error. Edgewood is not responsible for the errors of other persons including third party brokers, subadvisory and wrap program sponsors and custodians.

Item 13 – Review of Accounts

Investment management accounts are reviewed by members of the Investment Committee on an ongoing basis. All accounts are under constant supervision concerning adherence to investment mandates and client investment restrictions. Daily monitoring of accounts is performed to verify, among other reasons, client transactions, the receipt and disbursement of funds, and compliance with clients' investment guidelines and restrictions.

In addition to the statements provided by the custodians, Edgewood furnishes reports to clients on a quarterly basis or more frequently upon client request. Reports include detailed appraisals of accounts showing each security held, and the cost basis, market value and expected income of such securities.

Edgewood does not provide account reports to clients participating in the wrap-fee programs or other third party investment platforms. These clients are provided with reports from the program sponsor.

Item 14 – Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Edgewood receives certain research or other products or services from broker-dealers through soft dollar arrangements. These soft dollar arrangements create an incentive for Edgewood to select broker-dealers based on Edgewood's interest in receiving the research or other products or services. This can result in the selection of a broker dealer on the basis of considerations that are not limited to the lowest commission rates and can result in higher transaction costs than would otherwise be obtained by Edgewood on behalf of its clients. Please see Item 12 for additional information on Edgewood's soft dollar practices including Edgewood's procedures for addressing conflicts of interest that arise from such practices.

Independent third party promoters ("Promoters") can provide testimonials and endorsements, as defined under Rule 206(4)-1 of the Advisers Act, on behalf of Edgewood. Edgewood compensates certain Promoters whereby a fee is paid quarterly based on a percentage of the investment advisory fee paid by clients referred by the Promoter. Promoters are paid pursuant to a written agreement describing the scope of the agreed upon activities and the terms of the compensation for those activities. Promoters are required to provide Edgewood with documentation evidencing the delivery of required disclosures to the client at the time of the testimonial or endorsement to be eligible to receive compensation as a Promoter. The Promoters that refer clients to Edgewood to receive investment services are compensated for such referrals. Edgewood may in the future enter into additional paid promoter agreements under which it compensates persons for client referrals in accordance with Rule 206(4)-1.

Edgewood also purchases research and other services, including attendance at hosted or sponsored conferences, from independent consulting firms that may review and recommend Edgewood to potential advisory clients.

Item 15 – Custody

Edgewood does not maintain possession of any client account assets. Client assets must be held by a bank, broker dealer, mutual fund transfer agent or other such institution deemed a "qualified custodian" by the SEC.

Nevertheless, Edgewood is deemed to have "custody" pursuant to Rule 206(4)-2 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended, due to its authority over certain client accounts to transfer client funds or its role as trustee or other role in a similar capacity including general partner of a limited partnership or managing member of a limited liability company. Therefore, Edgewood is subject to a surprise custody examination annually.

Clients should receive at least quarterly statements from the broker dealer, bank or other qualified custodian that holds and maintains clients' investment assets. Edgewood urges clients to carefully review such statements and compare such official custodial records to the account statements that Edgewood provides to clients which can vary from custodial statements based on accounting procedures, reporting dates, or valuation methodologies of certain securities.

Item 16 – Investment Discretion

While Edgewood provides discretionary account management, account management is subject to the terms of each agreement between Edgewood and the individual client. Such terms can include, but are not limited to, restrictions concerning the securities that can be purchased and/or sold and the broker-dealers through which transactions may be effected.

When selecting securities and determining amounts of securities, Edgewood observes the investment policies, limitations and restrictions of the clients for which it advises. For certain accounts such as registered investment companies and pooled investment vehicles, Edgewood's authority to trade securities is limited by certain federal securities and tax laws that require diversification of investments and favor the holding of investments once made.

Investment guidelines and restrictions must be provided to Edgewood in writing.

Edgewood can invest eligible accounts in Initial Public Offerings ("IPOs"). Edgewood can receive allocations from offering dealers, in part, as a result of past usage of various brokerage firms by Edgewood on behalf of their respective investment management clients. As a matter of policy, Edgewood does not allocate IPOs to any Directed Brokerage or Wrap Accounts (remaining accounts therefore deemed "participating client accounts").

Edgewood will generally allocate IPO opportunities among its participating client accounts on a rotating basis as follows:

- Edgewood created a master list of all fee-paying, participating client accounts, arranged alphabetically, that were eligible to participate in initial public offerings at the time;
- The master list is updated with all new eligible, participating client accounts added to the end of the list;
- Eligibility to participate in IPOs will be based upon the following factors: (i) whether the client is permitted under FINRA conduct rules or other applicable law to participate in IPOs; (ii) whether custody of the client's account is maintained at a broker-dealer rather than at a bank or trust company; (iii) whether the client has provided written instructions as to whether or not the account may participate in IPOs (such instructions will be maintained in Edgewood's files); (iv) the timing of cash flows and account liquidity; (v) client's investment objective and strategies; and (vi) client's risk profile;
- All IPOs will be allocated among client accounts in the order in which client accounts appear on the master list;
- If a client account has its turn in the rotation but does not have available cash, the client account will lose its turn and the next client account on the list will be given the opportunity;
- In circumstances in which a client account identified to receive an IPO allocation is part of a larger group of client accounts (for example, the account owner has a number of accounts or is part of an extended family with numerous client accounts), the portfolio manager of the account identified will contact the authorized person for the account (e.g., the trustee or other decision-maker) to determine whether such authorized person wishes to designate in writing another account or accounts within the same group or family of clients to receive the IPO.

Any such written instructions will be maintained in Edgewood's files. To the extent that an alternative account or alternative accounts are designated, both the alternative account(s) and the account originally identified will lose their turns in the current rotation; and

- Any allocation of an IPO to a client account will be limited such that the value of the position will not exceed 3% of the value of the account's assets (measured at the time the allocation is made). Any excess amount that cannot be allocated to a particular account as a result of this percentage restriction will be allocated to the next account on the list.

In instances where an issuer is conducting an IPO of securities and Edgewood determines the securities constitute a suitable and appropriate term investment for one or more groups of similarly managed accounts, then, in consideration of the aforementioned factors, the anticipated size of the allocation and the desired position weighting, the Investment Committee can elect to subscribe to the IPO on behalf of all eligible and suitable accounts and apportion all shares received pro-rata irrespective of the final allocation size. Edgewood will have thereby cycled through its IPO client list, such that the next client entitled to IPO shares prior to such a pro-rata allotment will remain the next client entitled to receive IPO shares at the time of the next IPO opportunity.

Edgewood's policy can present conflicts of interest. For example, clients with investment objectives favoring active trading and who generate more commissions will subsidize those clients with investment objectives that result in relatively less active trading.

To the extent Edgewood has authority pursuant to the investment management agreement to participate in class action claims it will do so on a case-by-case basis. Edgewood retains a third party service provider to assist in filing for securities class action claims (the "Class Action Claims Service Provider"). The Class Action Claims Service Provider analyzes current Edgewood accounts for securities class action settlements and, if eligible, will file claims electronically on behalf of the accounts. If an account is entitled to a settlement recovery, the Class Action Claims Service Provider will coordinate to have the funds either mailed to the client or deposited into the client's custodial account. The Class Action Claims Service Provider is compensated on a contingency basis and deducts a fee no greater than 20% of funds recovered from claims on a client's behalf. An investment advisory client can elect to not participate in the class action filing process by providing Edgewood with written instructions to remove the account(s) from the program.

Item 17 – Voting Client Securities

Edgewood has adopted proxy voting policies and procedures designed to vote proxies efficiently and in the best interests of its clients. Edgewood's proxy policy designates certain issues to be voted routinely based on the nature of the proxy subject matter, subject to Edgewood's Investment Committee separately considering such issues on a case-by-case basis for a particular company. For example, Edgewood generally votes in favor of routine corporate housekeeping proposals, including election of directors (where no corporate governance issues are implicated). Edgewood will also generally vote against proposals that make it more difficult to replace members of a board of directors or that cause a company's management to be too heavily represented on a board. Edgewood typically considers all shareholder initiated proposals on a case-by-case basis.

To the extent that Edgewood considers proxy matters on a case-by-case basis, Edgewood's Investment Committee will determine whether a proposal is in the best interests of its clients and will take into account the following factors, among others: (i) whether the proposal was recommended by management and Edgewood's opinion of management; (ii) whether the proposal acts to entrench existing management; and (iii) whether the proposal fairly compensates management for past and future performance.

Edgewood seeks to identify any material conflicts of interest and to ensure that any such conflicts do not interfere with voting in clients' best interests. The following are examples of potential conflicts of interest. Edgewood can invest in companies that provide services to Edgewood as vendors, or which may retain Edgewood as an investment manager. In the event of a material conflict of interest, Edgewood votes particular proxies according to its standard proxy voting guidelines. If Edgewood's policies do not address a particular proxy matter and a material conflict of interest exists related to the matter, then Edgewood will request a third party independent voting recommendation to follow.

Clients may have specific voting requirements and can communicate those to Edgewood by giving reasonable prior written notice to Edgewood, which will seek to accommodate such requests if feasible, or the client can retain voting authority separately. Clients can obtain a copy of Edgewood's complete voting policies and procedures and information about how Edgewood voted a client's proxies by contacting Edgewood's Proxy Officer, Julianne Mulhall, by telephone at (212) 652-9100 or by e-mail at jmulhall@edgewood.com.

The Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA) charter is a globally respected, graduate-level investment credential established in 1962 and awarded by the CFA Institute – the largest global association of investment professionals. There are currently more than 90,000 CFA charterholders working in 134 countries. To earn the CFA charter, candidates must (i) pass three sequential, six-hour examinations, (ii) have at least four years of qualified professional investment experience, (iii) join CFA Institute as members, and (iv) commit to abide by, and annually affirm, their adherence to the CFA Institute Code of Ethics and Standards of Professional Conduct.

The CFA Institute Code of Ethics and Standards of Professional Conduct require CFA charterholders to place their clients' interests ahead of their own, maintain independence and objectivity, act with integrity, maintain and improve their professional competence, and disclose conflicts of interest and legal matters.

The three CFA exams are difficult and require extensive study (approximately 300 hours of study per level). Earning the CFA charter demonstrates mastery of many of the advanced skills needed for investment analysis and decision making in today's quickly evolving global financial industry.

The CFA Program curriculum provides a comprehensive framework of knowledge for investment decision making and is firmly grounded in the knowledge and skills used every day in the investment profession. To learn more about the CFA charter, please visit www.cfainstitute.org.
